Security Steps

And Terms of Use Agreement

To initiate the account activation you must submit the correct information and follow the online and email instructions.

For security reasons you will be asked to verify a few data pertinent to you and your child.

You will be also asked to set up your username and agree to the Terms of Use.

Note to the Primary Responsible Party:

(Primary Responsible Party under whom the child is insured must be entered correctly in step 1.)

Primary Responsible Party is the parent and/or caregiver under whom the child is insured.

Example: If the father is the primary insurer for the child, then the father is considered the primary responsible party.

If the mother is the primary insurer for the child then the mother is considered the primary responsible party.

Payment of $1

As the final step of the verification process you will be asked to pay $1 activation fee to the PayPal account of Apple Pediatrics- Bodhi Medical.

Please note that the credit card used during account activation MUST be the same as the one used during registration with Apple Pediatrics!

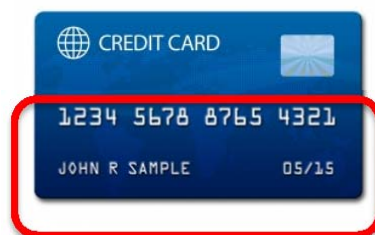

For security reasons use of any other credit card during the activation process will result in account lock out

Example: If the father's credit card was used during the "in office registration", then father's credit card is to be used during the account activation.

If the mother's credit card was used during the "in office registration, then the mother's credit card is to be used during the account activation.
